Classrooms for Next Year

Now is the time when we begin planning for next school year. One of the biggest tasks is working on which classroom students will be in for the new year. We work to create a balance of students in each class. Classroom teachers will meet and create the lists for next year along with my input. Sometimes there are concerns about certain students being in the same class together for whatever reason. Please let me know via email, mhull@dbqschools.org, if you have concerns.
